ABOUT HIV/AIDS

ReconcilingWorks
LUTHERANS FOR FULL PARTICIPATION

This resource is inspired by ReconcilingWorks' engagement at the 21st International AIDS Conference in July of 2016. It is a reflection guide and is provided as an entry point to deepen and expand an RIC community's commitment to welcome, inclusion, and celebration.

Historically, many faith communities have displayed strongly judgmental attitudes toward LGBTQIA+ people living with HIV. We must instead provide compassion, hospitality and dignity for all people. This guide will help your community begin discerning steps to take to create an open, compassionate and hospitable place for those living with HIV and AIDS.

PROMPTS FOR COMMUNITY REFLECTION

- 🎗️ Is your faith community known as a place of hope, support and advocacy for people living with HIV?
- 🎗️ Are there members or participants in your community that are open about their HIV or AIDS status?
- 🎗️ How often are sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, HIV and AIDS discussed openly during worship services?
- 🎗️ If these topics are discussed what is the theological tone? Graceful and compassionate, or something else?
- 🎗️ If these topics are not discussed, why are they not discussed?
- 🎗️ Do members or participants in your community understand what HIV and AIDS is and how it is transmitted? Are there misconceptions being expressed?

PROCESS STATEMENT

After engaging with the reflection prompts, you may realize your community needs to commit to an intentional conversation about deepening and expanding your RIC welcome. ReconcilingWorks encourages you to take three steps:

1. Put together a team of committed individuals.
2. Have one-to-one conversations with congregation members to hear from your community. This will help you discern where your community stands in terms of knowledge about HIV and AIDS and ideas and perceptions about HIV and AIDS.
3. Engage deeply with the organizations and resources listed below. These organizations have missions that focus on HIV and AIDS advocacy and prevention. The resources they can offer will enrich a faith based conversation about HIV and AIDS.
